Ullswater. This is the second largest of the English lakes. It is divided into three reaches, the first a mile long, the second three miles long, the third three miles long. The green crags of White Knoll and Arthur's Pike are on the lowest reach, the steep and beautiful slope of Birk Fell is on the middle one, and Helvellyn's fine summit looms over the third reach.

Dearest Dora

I am so sorry that I omitted to put an Easter Card for you amongst the others for Spencer Ha Please forgive me & accept this one with my best love.

Is it not lovely weather for the holiday? And what a contrast to what you have so recently had in Yorkshire! We seem to have jumped into June all of a sudden - the beach this morning was nearly as full as in summer time & some people were bathing. I can fancy what crowds there are on the Heath - I hope that there is a Gospel Tent - with refreshments - as in olden days. I trust that you & all yours are well - Please give my love to Amy & Alice. Very much to yourself -

Yr very affte - F. J. Young.

Can you get me a note from the Sunday School at Crowbridge certifying that Edwin attended school when he was there this Summer?
If you can you will greatly oblige
